BLUE IN DOUBLE WIN OVER CADETS IN WEEKEND GAMES

38-26 Cage Victory Is Another Step Towards State Title

LOSE TO U. OF N. H. BY 33 - 30 SCORE

Hockey Men Win On Water Covered Rink By 2-0 Score

The Blue cagesters winning at Rutland and the pucksters victorious on home ice, placed the Black Panther in the lead in both the state title contests. Neither game was especially close although the Norwichites threatened several times at the armory. The ice contest was one sided throughout most of the game with the cadets in the danger zone only a few times.

Earlier in the week the Blue lost to the University of New Hampshire in basketball. The University team was at the low end of the score until the last few minutes of play.

Basketball, Middlebury 36, Norwich 26

BY D. FRANCIS HOWE

Middlebury easily defeated the Norwich quintet, Saturday evening in the Rutland Armory. Although the Maroon and Gold threatened at times, there was no doubt as to the better team, and the outcome was never in doubt. The playing during the first half was practically all under the Norwich basket. During this period, the Panthers barely missed several shots that should have pushed them into a comfortable lead.

Middlebury drew the first blood when, after having shot after shot roll around the ring without dropping, Spooner finally succeeded in sinking one from under the basket. A few minutes later, Sorensen dropped one in from the side of the court. Hartford came back for Norwich by caging a long shot from the middle of the floor.

From then on the score mounted slowly, but with Middlebury always on the long end. Only once did Norwich come up on even terms with the Blue. With the score 14-13, Sorensen fouled Newton and he made the try good to tie the score at 14-14. However, a moment later, Humeston caged a shot just within the foul line and again sent the Panthers into the lead where they stayed throughout the game. The half ended with the score standing at 19-14.

Shortly after the opening of the second half, the Blue score took a sudden jump when Sorensen, Casey, and Franzoni all added baskets in quick succession. Fanos, who started at center and was later shifted to forward, contributed to the Soldiers' score by sinking several beautiful long shots.

The Panthers lost many opportunities to add to their score by missing several free throws from the foul line. Only Palmer, who went in for Spooner after he had four personals called on him, was able to do anything in this department. He succeeded in making four foul shots out of five tries.

Middlebury easily outclassed the Maroon and Gold in practically every part of the game. Only a few times were the Soldiers able to penetrate the Blue defense to get close to the basket. Nearly all their points came from shots outside the radius of the foul circle. The passing of the Blue aggregation was far above that of their opponents.

Sorensen, with six baskets to his credit, and Casey and Humeston, with their passing and defensive work, were outstanding for Middlebury, while Fanos, the former Fitchburg High star, was the one shining light in the

Ten Contributions for Alma Mater Song Contest

Ten contributions for the first part of the Alma Mater song contest have been submitted. These were sent immediately to the judges, and returns should be announced within two weeks. The general character of the lyrics is rather poor, but it is born in mind by the judges that a suitable Alma Mater poem is very difficult to compose.

Following are the pen names of the entrants: "Oliver," "Theodore Maude," "Nihil," "M. T.," "Ralph Rowe," "Mike," "G," "Diogenes," and "Dux."

NEUTRALS RETAIN LEAD IN TOURNEY

A. S. P. Wins Second Place By Defeat of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The Neutrals, although not scheduled to play, still top the intramural basketball competition by reason of their three previous victories. The A. S. P. team came within striking distance of the leaders by their defeat of the Sig Eps, having previously beaten B. K. The D. U. team and the Chi Psis both came through to victory over the Delta Sigs and S. P. E. respectively.

A. S. P. 36; B. K. 17.

Wednesday evening, the Alpha Sigma Phi team came to another victory in a fast game with Beta Kappa, ending with a score of 36 to 17. The floor work and shooting of the winning team was very good. McNary played a fine game at center, while Miller starred, netting 17 points. For the losers, Tomlinson and Kelly played the best.

Chi Psi 26; S. P. E. 22.

In a fast and rough game, played as a preliminary to the varsity-N. H. U. game, the Chi Psi team came through with the larger score of 26-22. The game was very close throughout and the score was unsettled until the last minute of play when Chi Psi rallied, netting three baskets. Williams and Smith played well for the winners, while Livingston was outstanding for the losers, scoring many long and difficult shots.

D. U. 39; D. S. 19.

In an uneventful game between the Delta Upsilon and Delta Sigma fraternity teams, the D. U. team gained another victory, with a score of 39-19. The winners played well, having fine team work and accurate shooting. Maynard starred, scoring 20 points for the winners, while Schmidt was a close second. Hoyt and Pratt played best for the losers.

A. S. P. 23; S. P. E. 17.

After a slow and listless game the Alpha Sigma Phi team advanced to second place in the league by beating

FIRST SEASONAL GLEE CLUB TRIP IS BIG SUCCESS

Concerts at Brattleboro, Rutland, Northfield and Greenfield

CRITICS PRAISE WORK OF CLUB

String Quartet and Violin and Baritone Solos Well Received

The Men's Club made its first seasonal trip to southern Vermont and Massachusetts last week end, giving four highly successful concerts at Rutland Brattleboro, Greenfield and Northfield. Forty one members of the club including its director, Professor H. G. Owen, James C. Thompson, violin soloist, Edwin E. Waite '29, baritone, and a string quartet composed of Thompson '29, Ciavarra '31, Yeaw '28 and Davis '29 made the trip.

The first appearance was at the Rutland Methodist church Wednesdayday night, under the auspices of the Woman's Club. The men left on the 6:15 train the following morning arriving in Brattleboro before noon. Especially fine entertainment was given the members here including dinner at the annual All Souls Church Fair. The club had the honor of giving a joint program with Hazel Hallett, pianist, who last year won the first prize offered to young artists throughout the United States by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Friday evening, under the Greenfield Parent-Teacher Association the third concert was given. A luncheon was provided at the Hotel Weldon and

COACH MARSHALL KLEVENOW HAS TENDERED RESIGNATION

The CAMPUS regrets the necessity of issuing another 4-page issue but because of the enforced absence of the linotype operator for the first part of the week it was found preferable to issue a 4-page issue on time than to publish the regular size edition a day late.

Mentor of Football and Baseball For Past Three Years.

NO COACH ENGAGED FOR NEXT SEASON

Had Unusual Undergraduate Athletic Record at Middlebury.

Marshall M. Klevenow, football and baseball coach and instructor in Physical Education for the past three years, has tendered his resignation, and will leave his present position at the end of the baseball season in June according to an announcement made public today from the office of the President.

President Moody received the following letter from Mr. Klevenow.

January 30, 1928

President Paul D. Moody,
Middlebury College,
Middlebury, Vermont,
Dear President Moody:

I wish to present to you at this time my resignation as Coach of Football and Baseball and Instructor in Physical Education to become effective at the close of the current college year.

I am unable to definitely state my plans for the future but feel that to continue here at Middlebury would be contrary to my best interests in view of the opportunities I have elsewhere.

I regret leaving Middlebury College after having been associated with it for the past seven years both as undergraduate and coach and at this time wish to express my appreciation to the undergraduates, faculty and alumni for the earnest co-operation they have given me during my stay here.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed)
MARSHALL M. KLEVENOW

The following statement was issued to the Coach:

February 7, 1928

Mr. Marshall M. Klevenow,
Middlebury College,
Middlebury, Vermont,
My dear Mr. Klevenow:

I am in receipt of your letter of January 30th in which you present your resignation to go into effect at the end of this college year.

In view of your feeling in the matter we have no alternative than to accept your resignation, but we cannot do it without expressing our satisfaction at having had you with us both as student and as Coach. Your influence has, at all times, stood for all those things which we think are most distinctive of Middlebury and you have promoted a high standard in athletics and have maintained the best standards of sportsmanship as well as being at all times an asset to the college from an educational standpoint.

It has always been a satisfaction and a pleasure to co-operate with you and we shall greatly miss your presence on the faculty. We wish to assure you that you will carry with you into whatever field you go, the gratitude and respect of the entire faculty and student body of Middlebury College.

Very sincerely yours,
(signed) PAUL D. MOODY

Marshall Klevenow was engaged as the Middlebury coach while still an undergraduate in March, 1925, to succeed David B. Morey, coach here between 1920 and 1925.

FACULTY STARS IN OFFICER 666

Professor W. S. Burrage Directs and Acts In Entertaining Comedy

Faculty actors starred in the production of "Officer 666" which was presented for the benefit of the Woman's Club in the Town Hall last Thursday evening. Professor W. S. Burrage assembled and directed the group and was also an outstanding member of the cast, playing the entertaining role of Whitney Barnes with admirable individuality.

Professor Albert Ranty, as the Japanese valet Bateato, was highly amusing and Professors Bowker and Griffin, Mr. E. J. Wiley and Coach Klevenow played their respective roles with great success.

Mr. B. S. Stewart and Mr. W. M. Gibson were stars among the town actors. The cast included only three women's parts. Mrs. E. J. Wiley and Miss Marion Swift played opposite Mr. Stewart and Professor Burrage, respectively, and Mrs. R. L. Barney held the role of irate aunt.

As a diverting three-act comedy "Officer 666" was certainly an achievement, keeping the audience entertained and interested throughout, going from one climax to another with surprising rapidity. Annual productions by a similar group and for a similar purpose had set a high standard for "Officer 666," with its unusually light aspect, to follow, but nothing less than complete satisfaction was registered by those who saw the play last Thursday evening.

Dr. J. C. Wilson Speaks to Women on Correct Posture

Dr. James C. Wilson of Hartford addressed members of the Women's College last evening at the Playhouse on the subject of posture. He painted out the dangers of habitual poor posture and urged the women to stand and sit properly to prevent any disabilities arising from incorrect posture.

The habit of slouching and of wearing high heels weakens muscles, permanently overstretches some and contracts others. It allows abdominal organs to drop, knees to bend, arms to hang looselly, head to droop.

Poor posture compresses the lungs so that an insufficient amount of air can be contained by them. This invites the development of tuberculosis. The tubercle bacillus never lives where there is a quantity of oxygen. It attacks a part of the lung that doesn't receive air. Nature furthers its growth by throwing a scar tissue around it. When this wall breaks down, the bacillus multiplies and forms tubercular tumors.

In forming any bad posture habit, we must remember that the resultant paint may not be in the neck we thrust forward, the foot we misplace, or the schoulder that we allow to droop.

Dr. Wilson followed his lecture with illustrations of various kinds of poor posture and of the disabilities they bring about.

The German Club held an enjoyable meeting in the hemicycle of Warner Science Hall Friday evening.

"KLEV"

To all of us the resignation of Coach Marshall Klevenow comes as a most depressing surprise. Since his entrance to Middlebury seven years ago, "Klev" has been one of the men on campus. He has been praised by President Moody as being truly representative of Middlebury. While a student he combined scholarship and athletic prowess in a manner that few football captains may; and as a coach he has carried onto football fields a spirit that will never fade from the memories of those working under him.

We express the sentiments of the entire student body when we say that we are sorry to see Coach Klevenow leave, yet it is not only because of the loss of his services as a coach; we are losing one of the best friends of Middlebury, a clean sportsman and a true gentleman.

HELL WEEK

In several fraternities this week is known as "Hell Week". For seven days the members of these societies once more return to animal-ism, and Freshmen pledges receive a notion of their unimportance. A good or bad idea? There are arguments pro and con, but we are content to dismiss it with the alibi that there is no harm in a little boisterous amusement, and Hell Week will not likely be forgotten by post-freshmen even if Latin, Political Science and Physics do evade memories. Would it be a good suggestion for professors to bear in mind the fact that this is Hell Week in assigning Freshmen lessons?

WHAT PRICE TEXT BOOKS?

Just what might be defined as the place of text books in college courses? It seems logical that a college student should have outgrown the adolescent method of memorizing a text book assignment and reciting in the class room what facts can be remembered so that the professor will be sure that the required pages have been read on time. Furthermore, it is conceivable that if a student has read a certain number of pages, he does not need to have the facts therein repeated to him in the form of a lecture.

It would be petty to object to the material cost of text books, which, after all, are often valuable additions to one's library and so are worthwhile possessions in themselves. Nor can one object to a text book that forms a background for class discussions, giving professor and students a mutual background for exchange of views and argument. And a text that serves as a handbook for reference material is valuable to have nearby.

The text book that is objectionable, however, is the one that must be read and listened to, both. The intellectual stimulus is gone out of a lecture that repeats, with only an occasional change of phrase and an infrequent. elaboration of detail, the pages that have been read a few hours before. Intellectual passivity, if not downright boredom, is too high a price to pay for text books. A. F.

CHEERING AGAIN

The cheering of the Middlebury student body has been repeatedly criticised during the past year in the editorial columns. The student body has a very important part to play in the winning or losing of games, in the matter of its cheering. Without backing, the team, whether croquet or polo, is bound to play an inferior game.

Last Saturday at the basketball game in Rutland Middlebury cheering was at as low an ebb as it could very likely drop to. If the persons occupying the Panther cheering section were to be taken as representatives they must have had sore throats or fallen arches. When a most persistent cheer leader asked the section to stand two people were brave enough to admit their college affiliation. And if those present did know the College cheers they aptly concealed their knowledge.

Certainly no cheers at all are to be preferred to those "parrotted" in a half whisper with about the same degree of enthusiasm as would be shown in a Biblical Literature Class or some kindred subject. Isn't a victory over Norwich sufficient excuse for wild cheers and the resultant limbering of the vocal cords? We might suggest that in the future those attending games out of town be provided with gaily colored "Hankies" to wave in unison when the team wins. It would be less ridiculous than the exhibition given Saturday night.

LITERARY NOTES

"YELLOW GENTIANS AND BLUE"
By Zona Gale

In this latest volume of her work, "Yellow Gentians and Blue," Zona Gale has collected some of those sketches which have appeared under her name in recent years in various magazines—and one or two in O'Brian's collection of the best short stories.

I call her work "sketches" advisedly for seldom are they more than faint, yet well-impresioned pen-and-ink portraits. The "Yellow Gentians" title is aptly taken from Noah Webster, "the yellow gentian which has a very bitter taste." The blue, which compose the remainder of the book, are not noticeably sweeter. Indeed if it were not for Miss Gale's delicate and painstaking artistry there would be little to recommend them.

"Yellow Gentians and Blue" is an attractive but anemic sister of "Winesburg, Ohio," and Spoon River Anthology," for Zona Gale is an interesting combination of Master's pessimism with a decided leaning toward the exquisite water color perfection of manner, characteristic in earlier days of Sara Irene Jewett. The book is thin, attractively bound and artisticly pessimistic—perfect for the parlor table.

"LITERARY BLASPHEMIES"
By Ernest Boyd

Harper and Brothers $2.50

A series of essays on Shakespeare, Milton, Swift, Byron, Dickens, Poe, Whitman, Henry James, and Hardy. Mr. Boyd delights in making extravagant statements about the dark secrets of the lives of these geniouses. He is bitter, amusing, suggestive, and at times unanswerable. The essays are witty, but to be taken with a grain of salt, particularly in the treatment of the poets. One could not help but read the book with enjoyment and interest, if prepared not to take it too seriously.

free use of the toboggan slide during the afternoon. The final entertainment was presented at Northfield Seminary. The Club was entertained at East Hall.

Worthy criticism was given the Glee Club by all the local papers. The Campus quotes The Brattleboro Daily Reformer as follows: "Lovers of really good music found much satisfaction in the Women's Club's annual musical last night.

"The Glee Club, is one of the best college glee clubs in the country. Certainly none better has been heard in Brattleboro. The harmony was beautiful and the selections were grouped to produce the best effect, most of them by the old masters. E. E. Waite rendered baritone solos, showing ability as a singer but being badly handicapped by a severe cold. James Thompson, rated one of the best college violinists in New England college circles, afforded much pleasure, and a string quartet gave pleasing variety to the program."

The program given was as follows:

PART I

Glee Club: Invictus, Huhn; Songs My Mother Taught Me, Dvorak.

Baritone solos, Mr. Waite: Morning, Speaks; Calm as the Night, Bohm.

Glee Club: Chorus of Departing Pilgrims, Wagner; Chorus of Returning Pilgrims, Wagner; from "Tannhauser."

String Quartet: Prelude, Massenet.

Glee Club: The Nightingale, Tchaikowsky; Serenade, Haydn; Three Hundred Pipers, Old Scotch, arranged by Murchison.

Violin Solo, Mr. Thompson: Melody Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

Intermission

PART II

Glee Club: The Broken Melody, Sibelius; Bonjour mon Coeur, DiLasso.

String Quartet: Adagietto, from "L'Arlesienne", Bizet; Presto, from Quartet No. 2, Hayden.

Glee Club: The Joy of the Hunter from "Der Freischutz", Weber.

Violin Solo, Mr. Thompson: Hejre Kati (Scenes from the Czarda), Hubay.

Glee Club: Oh, Italia, Italia from "Lucrezia Borgia", Donizetti.

COMMUNICATION

President Moody received the following letter from Professor Longwell, which is reprinted below in full.

Hotel Metropole,
Sydney, Australia
December 27, 1927

Dear President Moody,

I arrived here on the R. M. S. Tahiti, December 24th after a most wonderful sea voyage, occupying twenty-four days.

Ten days out from San Francisco, we put in at Papeete, Tahiti Is., (of the Society Islands) remaining there the entire day for cargo.

Tahiti is of volcanic origin and appears as such when seen at a distance early in the morning (4:30), for then it is sharply outlined against the sky with craters and sloping sides. But as morning dawned it was transformed into a rich tropical island clothed in fresh-green verdure, with graceful palms and several trees in full blossom.

The harbor is formed within the coral reef, which surrounds the island about a quarter of a mile from shore, everywhere, except a natural break, a few hundred feet wide, through which ships enter.

The dock was crowded with natives among whom were distributed a few whites. The natives are really handsome—well-proportioned with chiselled features and dark sparkling eyes. In groups of even six or eight, at least two or three differently colored skins were apparent. White blood seems to soften their features and heightens their beauty. The pure native is of a chocolate color which is not repulsive.

The island possesses a most remarkable fauna and flora—brilliantly colored birds and flowering plants. Of trees, the cocoanut palm is the most numerous and Papeete is an important source of "copra" used for cocoanut oil. Through a glass bottom boat on the coral reef, I got glimpses of many beautiful fishes, for the water is clear even to the depth of twenty feet. I found so much to engage my attention in every direction on the island, that when the last warning whistle blew and we put out to sea again, I looked back longingly on Tahiti, the gem of the South Seas. I am not surprised at all that Jack London and Robert Louis Stevenson used the island as a retreat and inspiration for some of their novels. But it is far more interesting to a biologist than it ever could be to a literary man.

Early the next morning we ran into a cyclone, wind blowing a hundred-mile gale and the Tahiti wobbling through 20 to 25 degrees, for half an hour. The ship was compelled to change its course and the emergency signal got the crew on duty. I learned all this at breakfast for I slept through it all. But the weather cleared until we ran into a storm lasting two days with waves dashing over the lower three decks so as to deprive us of their use.

During the entire voyage I was fortunate enough to escape seasickness but my heart ached for some other passengers. I wish I could have transferred those cases to some other passengers ungracious enough to brag of their immunity, as if it were a personal attainment! Neptune can stir up a lot of water even in the Pacific and he is most ungallant in selecting his victims to suffer from the effects thereof.

The remainder of the journey to Cook Island, where we were not allowed to go ashore and to Wellington where we were in the harbor two days and to Sydney, was over a smooth sea.

Dr. A. S. LeSouef, Director of the Sydney Park and Zoo, I was out with me at Wellington and I was out with him all day Christmas. He is a "peach" of a fellow and I'm getting much from him.

I am planning to attend the meeting of Australian scientists at Hobart, Tasmania, January 13. In the meantime, I hope to get in touch with a Mr. Chas. Barrett, a clever writer of natural history and well versed in the Australian fauna, especially the birds.

Cordially yours,
(Signed) S. E. LONGWELL

Hockey—Middlebury 2, Norwich 0

Saturday, there came from Northfield a burly lot of puckmen, but after thirty minutes of sliding around on ice covered with water, the Norwichites had to accept defeat at the hands of Captain Simmons and his able crew of blue jerseyed warriors. Due to the fine all-around play of the entire team and the excellent shooting of Wittemore, Middlebury drew first blood in the battle for the State Hockey Championship by winning 2 to 0.

Referee Barry started the game by dropping the puck between the rival center ice men Kelley and Waining, and Middlebury started her drive toward the Norwich goal. The going was slow and slippery, the Norwich end of the rink being under water. Kelley was all over the ice and the whole Middlebury team was playing well forward. The Norwich team was devoting all its energy to a defense against the rushes of Kelley, Simmons and Whittemore. The puck sailed back and forth as the Middlebury forward line took long shots at the Norwich goal and the Norwich players knocked it back into Middlebury territory. There was ont much action to start with.

was not much action to start with.

Kelley and Whittemore surged into Norwich territory and from a general scramble near one corner Whittemore took possession of the swimming rubber and splashed it through goalie Fullerton for the first score of the game. Fullerton tried in vain to save as the submerged puck came splashing at him but the slippery ice and water were against him and the puck floated safely into the net.

After a little over four minutes of the second period had elapsed, the puck sailed out of a melee in center ice and Whittemore pounced on it and with only the goalie to stop him, scored Middlebury's second and last goal. Whittemore made a hard rising shot from about eight feet out and it whisked into the net before Fullerton knew what was happening.

The second string forward line consisting of McLeod, Huntington and Hill came on the ice at the start of the third period and waged even battle with the desperate Norwich team. Norwich was trying hard to score but the defense pair of Bates and Bossert refused to let anything get by them. Near the end of the period the first string forwards came back, evidently to try to raise the score, but could not do so and the game ended with the score still 2 to 0.

The visitors did not have much of an offense and spent their efforts in trying to keep Middlebury from scoring. The Norwich defense was good and the work of goalie Fullerton stood out. Fullerton had a hard job cut out for him in warding off the shots of the Middlebury forwards but he gave a good exhibition and made more than one difficult save. The score:

Simmons	L.W.	Ellis
Kelley	C.	Waining

New Hampshire 33, Middlebury 30

In a game which appeared to be won until the very last minutes of play, the Middlebury basketball team lost to the New Hampshire State team in the McCullough Gymnasium last Thursday night by a score of 33-30.

The home team was ahead at half time, when the score stood at 16-14, and they maintained a lead until the last three minutes of play, when the Granite Staters brought the score to 27-26. Two more baskets in less than a minute of play lent them a five point lead, which the Blue team quickly cut down to a one point lead again. With but a minute to play, the New Hampshire team scored again leaving them with a three point lead when the final whistle blew a few seconds later.

The play was forced by both teams throughout, each side paying more attention to offense than defense. Humeston and Johnson starred for Middlebury, and when the former was re-

SNOW PERFORMERS GO TO DARTMOUTH

Blue Represented by Four Men at Intercollegiate Championships

A winter sports team composed of Henry Weston '29, captain; Henry Hunt '29, Ronald Burrows '29 and William Donald '28, will represent Middlebury College at the Annual Intercollegiate Winter Sports Championship Contests at Dartmouth, tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday. There will be in the neighborhood of fifteen colleges in competition, bringing together the best college snow and ice performers in the East.

Captain Weston and Hunt will perform in the ski events, while Donald and Burrows will engage in the cross-country snowshoe races. Burrows is also entered in the skating races. These men have performed well in past meets and are responsible for the Blue's winning the state championship cup for last year.

The Green Mountain Conference meet, in which the team is entered, will be at Norwich the following week end. The state championship will probably be decided at these contests. Among the several meets pending are one at McGill University and the Lake Placid meet. There will also be an Intramural Winter Carnival at Middlebury on February 22.

Women's Basketball Schedule Announced

The women's inter-class basketball schedule will begin Friday with a Junior-Freshman game at 4:30. From then on there will be games every Thursday evening at 7:30. Second-team games will be played on Mondays at 4:30 and Fridays at 3:30.

There are no permanently picked first and second teams. A record has been kept for every girl out for squad practice so that those girls who are called out for the first-team game on Friday, February 10, at 4:30 are those with the most favorable "write-ups." The list will be posted two days in advance of every game, and can be found at Gymnasium bulletin board and at Battell.

Whether or not a girl will get first or second team points depends on with which of the two teams she plays the greater number of games.

The games for the week are as follows:

February 10, Juniors vs. Freshmen; February 14, Sophomores vs. Freshmen, Seniors vs. Juniors.

COACH MARSHALL KLEVENOW HAS TENDERED RESIGNATION

first year, playing at end. He was elected to captaincy of the team in 1923, and led his team to one of the most successful seasons in Middlebury history. In 1923 he received honorable mention in Walter Camp's list of fullbacks and was picked for the all-Vermont team. His really big feat was his tying the Harvard game with two placement kicks. He was given a fullback position on the all-Harvard Stadium team, the all-Connecticut-Valley team and the all-New England smaller college team.

He won his varsity baseball letter three years playing second base, when not hurling. He had a batting average of .379 in 1923. He was also a member of the basketball team.

Since holding the position as coach, he has made an excellent record in both major sports. He followed out the system of football founded by Coach Morey, and has produced for the past three years winning teams out of mediocre material.

The athletic authorities have not yet had a chance for consideration of his successor.

Quality sent P.A. to the head of the class

YEARS ago, P.A. showed a clean pair of heels to the field of smoking-tobaccos. It has maintained its lead ever since, putting more distance behind it every year. There must be a reason why P.A. is the world's largest-selling brand.

There is! Open a tidy red tin and get a full breath of that class-by-itself fragrance. Then tamp a load into the bowl of your pipe and light up. The first pull tells you why more men smoke P.A. than any other brand. Cool and smooth and mellow and mild—not for one pipe-load, but always. Try this long-burning tobacco, Fellows. You'll say so!

If you vibrate to quality, you'll gravitate to P.A.
